Thieves hit business, residence over weekend

By Larry Rowell
Editor

It took about four minutes for thieves to make off with a zero turn riding mower from a local business over the weekend.

Green River Outdoors, on Wallace Wilkinson Boulevard, was hit at 3:37 a.m. Saturday morning by two thieves, said Eric Pruner, who works at GRO.

"They stole one of the lawnmowers out front. There were two of them, wearing hoodies and baseball caps," he said, adding there is video surveillance of the theft.

Liberty Police Officer Richie Francioni said he believes the thieves cut the cable on the $11,000 eX-

Students at Casey County High School wore camouflage clothing on Oct. 3 in support of Rex Rader, an avid hunter who was seriously injured when he fell from a tree stand the end of August. Rader, a teacher and coach at CCHS, continues to recover in a Lexington hospital. A benefit chili and potato soup lunch will be held Friday at First Christian Church's fellowship hall to help the family with medical expenses.

Rader recovering from fall in UK hospital

A Casey County man who was injured after falling from a deer stand in a tree continues to recover in a Lexington hospital.

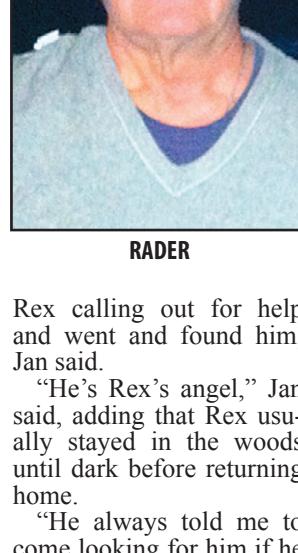

Rex Rader suffered massive internal injuries on Aug. 30 when he fell about 30 feet from a tree, said his wife, Jan Rader.

"About 1:30 Rex said 'I'm going to work on my deer stand,' getting ready for deer season which would begin the following weekend," she said.

Rader estimates that her husband lay in the woods about an hour-and-a-half before he was found.

"Our neighbor, Kevin Warner, who lives three fields over, was on his lawn mower and happened to turn his mower off when he heard something," Rader said.

At first, Warner thought it was a calf calling out in the field. He next heard

RADER

Rex calling out for help and went and found him, Jan said.

"He's Rex's angel," Jan said, adding that Rex usually stayed in the woods until dark before returning home.

"He always told me to come looking for him if he wasn't home before dark," she said. "I never dreamed that would come true."

Rex was flown to University of Kentucky Medical Center where he has been in ICU until this past weekend, when he was moved to Acute Transition.

Doctors told Jan that Rex had a massive aortic dissection and the blood to his left kidney was cut off, which surgeons removed.

"His right kidney isn't responding yet so he's on dialysis every other day," Jan said.

In addition, Rex's lungs collapsed and he went into heart failure, she said.

As for his prognosis, Jan said that Rex has a long way to go.

"The doctor was in on Thursday and said that Rex has a marathon race to run. It's going to be a slow race and we'll have some ups and downs along the way but he's headed in the right direction," she said.

"He'll have to go to rehab once they release him from the hospital. We have no idea how long he'll be in the hospital."

Rex, 66, is well known in Casey County, having worked as a police officer in Liberty and also as the first School Resource Officer at Casey County High School. His latest position, from which he planned to retire the end of this month, was being in charge of the school suspension program at CCHS.

Scores of young people remember Rex for volunteering countless hours over the course of 14 years as the discus and throwing coach, for both middle and high schoolers.

Still, Jan said that what has gotten them through the past six weeks are the prayers and support of the community.

"I want to say how wonderful our community has been. It's unreal to me how much people have responded and called. I just

Principals, teacher join B.O.E. office team

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

Though you might recognize them, there are three new faces at the Casey County Board of Education Central Office.

Effective Oct. 1, Boyd Harris, former principal of Liberty Elementary School, along with Shawn Pierce, principal at Jones Park Elementary, and LES teacher Luanne Williams, were each named as Directors of District Wide Programs.

With various responsibilities divided among the three, Casey County Superintendent Marion Sowders said he is excited to welcome them to the central office team.

"I think all of their skill sets are strong — their experience, work-ethic, and knowledge base of the programs," Sowders said. "They each have great reputations of being successful leaders and successful teachers, so I think they will do an outstanding job."

LES says goodbye to its leader

After almost 10 years, Boyd Harris is leaving his principal post at LES to fill the shoes of a new position, and although he is enthusiastic about becoming the new District Assessment Coordinator he said it is a bittersweet transition.

PREPARING FOR THE POLLS — BOARD OF EDUCATION

Edwards, Tucker vying for District 2 school board seat

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

There is one seat up for the taking in the Casey County School Board race, and two candidates are fighting for the chance to fill it.

The District 2 seat, currently held by Anthony Edwards, is being challenged by Joey Tucker of Liberty.

Young blood and new ideas

That's what Joey Tucker said he can bring to the Casey County Board of Education. A resident of Liberty since 1993, Tucker has four children and has been married to Michelle Tucker for 19 years. Many know Tucker through his extended family, who owns the Bread of Life Cafe, and through his eldest son, Michael, who is a Christian missionary and active member of the Liberty community. A member of Dunnville Christian Church, Tucker said he is very involved with the youth of Casey County and although he is 40, he considers himself young.

"I've always been active with youth because of my children," he said,

"And whether you're 20 years old or 40 years old it doesn't matter, as long as kids know they have your support."

With the District 2 seat open, Tucker believes he can extend this activity and reach even further for the whole school district.

"I want to be proactive in helping the Casey County School District remain a top 11 percentile district in the state of Kentucky and keep watching our district grow into one of the top in the state," he said.

Tucker believes the school board must continue to focus efforts on student achievements by setting high academic expectations for all students and by always putting students first with every decision.

"As a board member, I will serve as an advocate for all students, staff, and parents by adopting a student-first approach when dealing with goals, policies, and budgeting."

Atta boy, coach

It was the late Chik-Fil-A owner Truett Cathy who said, "It is easier to build boys than to mend men."

A veritable quote anytime but certainly applicable in a situation where 12 Casey County High School football players have been suspended from Friday night's upcoming homecoming game against Metcalfe County.

It seems a CCHS player was ejected from the Wayne County game on Thursday night for having allegedly thrown a punch at an opponent after a scramble for a fumble.

But what's somewhat fuzzy at this point is why the other 11 players decided to cut practice on Friday, forcing Coach Sam Marple to suspend the 12 players.

"I hate it for the kids, but I think there are some things bigger than wins and losses. It's impossible to go through life and not have downfalls, but you've got to respond the right way," Marple said.

We commend Coach Marple for standing up for what he believes is the right thing to do in keeping with team rules and policies.

It's a good thing in this day of excuses and passing the buck that a teacher and coach applied discipline in the face of criticism and complaints.

Keep being the leader you are Coach, and these young men will respect you for it. And if they don't, the life's lesson is lost on them.

Microsoft boss makes a boo-boo

Abigail WHITEHOUSE
Staff Writer

What's the worst possible thing you could say during a conference specifically celebrating women in technology? If you're not sure, the boss man of Microsoft, Satya Nadella can help you out.

Nadella was asked this question: "What advice would you offer women who are not comfortable asking for pay raises?"

Now you would think a man — standing in front of a lot of women, a lot of successful women — would know that whatever his answer might be, it should NOT downplay or disregard the gender pay gap.

Unfortunately, Nadella opened his mouth before his brain was able to make the proper synapses, and his response immediately spurred a full-blown scolding on social media from females all over the world.

His response was, "It's not really about asking for the raise, but knowing and having faith in the system will actually give you the right raises as you go along."

Egads! I bet as soon as those words left his mouth, he regretted it.

Have faith in the system? The same system that is responsible for the gender pay gap?

In 2013, the average woman working full-time, year-round in the U.S. made about 78 percent of their male counterparts' earnings.

In that same year, Kentucky's median annual earnings for men (16 years or older) working full-time, year round was $41,612 — women, $32,684. Our state male-female earnings ratio echoes that of the entire U.S. — 78.79 percent.

I don't think Nadella is a sexist pig. Nor do I think he meant what he said in the way it is being perceived.

I think what Nadella meant to say and should have said is that women shouldn't be afraid to ask for a raise.

If a woman has done her job well and has substantial evidence to back up her case, she should have no problem asking for a raise.

If his answer had simply been, "They shouldn't be afraid. They should just ask," then he never would have awoken the feminist wrath — not that it's really all that hard to awaken — I can say that because I'm a WOMAN.

Nadella has since released an apology and essentially provided the answer he meant to give in the first place: "If you think you deserve a raise, you should just ask."

So why are women afraid to ask for a raise? I don't have the whole answer, but I have an idea. As young girls, many of us are taught under the belief that silence is golden — that it is a much greater power to be submissive than it is to be defiant. Being a loud and demanding woman won't do anything but rub people the wrong way, men and women alike.

So we walk around apologizing — for everything — most of the time for things we can't control or things we didn't even do.

So in order to get the pay we deserve, we must first believe we deserve it.

We don't need to be afraid of hearing no.

We don't need to apologize for taking up someone's time in order to discuss our wages.

All we have to do is set up the meeting, lay out our case, confidently ask for the raise, and wait to hear yes.

I am truly baffled by this one

7-year-old changes gender

As a news junkie, I'm constantly scanning emails for stories in newspapers from all around Kentucky. One in particular caught my eye on Friday and it gave me pause to think: "how in the world?"

But then again, I'm no longer shocked by what I see in a newspaper or on an online web site or the TV.

The Owenton News Herald in Owenton, Ky. ran a story on Thursday and this was the lead sentence:

"A 7-year-old Owen County student, designated male at birth, has always identified herself as female."

The story states that the male second-grade student went home on a Friday and returned to school on Monday as a girl, complete with new backpack, clothes, and name — Ella.

The school has made accommodations for the now female student with a unisex bathroom and special measures to protect her against bullying.

Larry ROWELL
Editor

Superintendent Rob Stafford said that school officials have been monitoring the situation and disciplining those children who have bullied Ella.

Now comes the baffling part of all this, at least for me.

How does a 7-year-old determine that he's now a she? Most kids that age cannot figure out what clothes to put on each morning or when to bathe or what to eat for breakfast much less make a decision to adopt another gender.

That's almost akin to having someone that age declare that he's going to marry so-and-so one day, or attend such-and-such college, choose a career, live in a certain city, drive a certain model of car, and so on.

What triggers that desire to change and be someone other than what God created?

ated a child to be?

And what of marriage? Are there heterosexual men who want to marry a person born male but who says he's female?

I guess there's some things in this old world I cannot, and will not, understand.

Alison Lundergan Grimes

The Lexington Herald Leader newspaper reported on Friday that one of their reporters asked Alison Grimes three times if she voted for Barack Obama for President.

Not only did she refuse to answer the question, she turned her back on the reporter, which is just rude.

While she wasn't rude to me when I interviewed her at the 2013 Apple Festival, she never answered a question I posed about Obamacare. Grimes' handler stepped in and said it was time to move on.

Grimes is widely criticized for not answering questions about issues that affect Kentuckians, and we should be able to know if she voted for Obama. Does she support the Democratic party? What about agreeing with Nancy Pelosi and Harry Reid — both long-time liberal Democrats — along party lines?

I doubt we'll ever know who she voted for but I sincerely don't believe she cast a ballot for Mitt Romney in his failed bid for president in 2012.

We need answers to pressing issues, specifics, her vision for not only Kentucky, but also for the nation.

Alas, I don't think we'll see anything but negative ads from this point on, since the election is less than three weeks away.

As to what she thinks of Casey County, Grimes has canceled two personal appearances here in the past two months.

However, she is scheduled to make an appearance here tomorrow, Thursday, at the Central Kentucky AG/EXPO Center at 4:30 p.m.

Hopefully she'll show up and greet the Democratic faithful. If not, I guess there's always the political ads on TV we can watch to glean information.

Woolly worms, hornets' nests, and squirrels

Joberta WELLS
Columnist

I still haven't recovered from last winter and here we are less than three months away from the official opening day of winter (Dec. 21). There's only one good thing about that day — it is the official beginning of the days getting longer again. Big whoop! We'll probably be freezing our derrieres off instead of celebrating the lengthening days.

People who are not consumed with the upcoming elections, the wars in the Middle East, global warming, and the Ebola epidemic are all talking about what this coming winter is going to be like. The old-timers and — some of the ones who aren't so old — have been observing Mother Nature's signs and are making grim predictions for an early and harsh winter. Okay, I'm one of the old-timers who is making predictions for another awful winter.

I have a little hickory than black. Supposedly if they are more black than brown, it's going to be one heck of a winter.

I have heard that hornets build their nests very high off the ground if it's going to be a bad winter. Do wasp nests count? I don't have any hornets' nests but I've got lots of wasp nests high off the ground.

Squirrels are said to build their nests high up in trees when it's going to be a miserably cold winter. Well, I can report that my squirrels have penthouses this year. Nothing close to the ground for them!

It is said that pet dogs and cats get heavier coats of fur when it's going to be a cold, cold winter. I have a big orange cat with long hair who has already doubled the size of his coat. He looks like a fuzzy bushel basket. I think he knows something I don't.

Persimmon seeds have long been used to predict winter weather. You cut open some seeds and see what image is in them. If you find what looks like a fork, it's going to be a mild winter. If you find a knife, it's going to be bitter cold with the wind cutting through you like a knife.

Lord help you if you find a spoon because that means you're going to be digging out of lots of snow. I haven't been able to get to my persimmon tree because my cattle stay too close to it and I'm not fighting a cow or a bull for persimmons. I have heard that some folks have seen spoons in the seeds they've opened. Oh, my! I guess this means the sweatshirts are going to have to come out of storage soon. I hope they don't wear out.

Wouldn't it be a hoot if we had a mild winter with little or no snow (except on Christmas Eve, of course)?

beyond high school, is a top priority for Tucker, as well.

"I want to explore every option to obtain funding for our students by looking at the state and federal levels for extra funding and grants," Tucker said.

Tucker said he believes he is the best candidate because he is young blood with new ideas.

"Sometimes you've got to mix it up and get a different perspective in there," he said.

For the love, not the money

It's not the money he makes that drives Anthony Edwards to the monthly Casey County Board of Education meetings, he said, but the desire to make sure the district's money is spent within its means.

"We may not always be the ones spending the money," Edwards said, "But we are the ones here to ensure there is proper oversight. It's easier to spend someone else's money, therefore we have to make sure the district operates within its budget."

Much of his motivation is derived from his 11-year-old daughter who attends Walnut Hill Elementary.

"She comes skipping home and brags about certain things that I already have prior knowledge about," he said, "Like the chrome books, for example. She was so excited about being able to use them."

Edwards said he didn't want to take away from her excitement by telling her that he was part of the reason behind the school's exciting new addition.

"Her mother told her, but she didn't believe it," he said, laughing.

When it comes down to it, Edwards believes being a member of the board gives you a chance to speak on behalf of all of the kids in the district.

"The decisions you make have an impact on the future of students and the future of Casey County," he said. "If the voters feel like the other candidate will do a better job, then that's who they need to vote for, but I enjoy making a difference in the district."

Editor's Note: Michael Turner, District 3 board member, is unopposed in the Nov. 4 general election. Districts 1 and 4 will be up for election in 2015.

"I definitely enjoyed my time at LES," Harris said. "I feel like we developed a culture of high expectations and we have been pretty successful. I feel like we've provided a good overall program, not just academically – I stress the 'we' because I had a very supportive group of teachers and staff working with me there."

Harris said he is proud of LES, after being recognized as a high performing school for the third year in a row by the K-PREP assessment scores.

Though he will miss LES, Harris said this new opportunity was one that he really wanted to pursue, mainly for the chance to help not only one school in the Casey district, but all schools.

"I'm hoping that I can do things in this position that will benefit and contribute to all the district schools and students," Harris said. "We've got a lot of good things happening and the expectations are high so we just hope to continue to build upon that."

It is Harris' aspiration that whomever is hired as the new principal at LES will continue to build upon the success the school has already experienced and keep in place what is known to work.

"Everybody kind of has their own style and their own way of doing things," he said. "I know there will be changes but I think there is a good foundation there to continue to build upon."

Only two weeks in, Harris has hit the ground running with the newly released K-PREP assessment scores.

"With the state test score release we've jumped right in and started digging into those numbers," Harris said. "This data will tell us exactly what we need to do in order to get students where they need to be academically."

JPE does the same

Like LES, Jones Park

Elementary is bidding farewell to Shawn Pierce, who has been the principal there for the past five years.

Pierce, who is proud of the accomplishments of JPE students and staff, said he is still working part-time at the elementary school so the change hasn't completely sunk in.

"Once it does though it's going to be really different. I'm going to miss interacting with the children, that's for sure," Pierce said.

With the principal selection process already underway, Pierce hopes whomever is hired can continue to improve upon student achievements and the strong relationships that exist between staff and students.

"My advice would be not to lose sight of what you are there for – the kids," he said. "The decisions you make should always be made with the students in mind."

With new positions come new challenges, and for Pierce, a chance to learn from the district.

"It's a new challenge that I'm looking forward to," he said. "There's a lot to it and a lot to learn but I'm excited about the opportunity to work with all schools now and not just one."

As the new high school Supervisor of Instruction, as well as overseer of professional development and evaluation systems, Pierce already has some new ideas up his sleeve, including possibly expanding the one-year mentorship program for non-tenured teachers.

"We provide it during their first year but after that it kind of falls off," he said. "There are still things we can teach those people, even after their first year, and our mentors can learn from teachers as well. It's a two-way street of learning."

With an extended mentorship, Pierce believes they can provide support, share ideas, and what has been successful in their classrooms that might be successful in others.

PIERCE

"I envision teachers being paired with successful veteran teachers who can share ideas back and forth," Pierce said.

LES says goodbye to another

Luann Williams said there is a learning curve with her newly appointed position, and much to learn as she leaves her fourth grade teaching post at LES and takes on the role of Federal Program Coordinator.

"A big part of my new job is federal funding," Williams said. "That's probably the main one."

But it is curriculum and instruction that Williams is passionate about.

"I guess the next big umbrella part of my job would be elementary Supervisor of Instruction," she said. "That will definitely feel more like home."

After building relationships with her students, which Williams believes to be the best part of teaching, she said she is going to miss the kids.

"I'm still going to get to work with the staff on a regular basis but it's the one-on-one daily encounter with the students that I'm going to miss the most," she said.

Williams, a native of Liberty, taught in other districts before returning to her hometown and she said she can appreciate the Casey County School District more because of it.

"You know the kids' families," she said. "That's one thing that's neat about teaching here. You have the opportunity to build such close relationships with students and their families here."

Although Williams loves teaching math, her new position will give her plenty of new challenges, which she said she is ready to tackle.

"I'm ready to get my feet under me and learn the new parts of the position," she said.

Loy attends District Judges Fall College

District Court Judge Michael Loy, who represents Casey and Adair counties, participated in the 2014 District Judges Fall College that took place Sept. 14-17 at the Administrative Office of the Courts in Frankfort. The AOC provided the judicial education program for the state's district judges.

The District Court judges attended sessions on DUI, expungements, court technology and Senate Bill 200, the juvenile justice reform that the governor recently signed into law. The legislation steers more young offenders into community-based treatment for underlying issues rather than locking them up in detention centers for non-violent acts, such as truancy.

Judges also received updates on case law and legislation and attended a session on firearms prohibitions under House Bill 308. HB 308 took effect in 2011 and requires Kentucky to notify the FBI when a court finds an individual mentally incompetent. Federal law prohibits the sale of guns to anyone adjudicated as mentally defective or who has been committed to a mental institution.

Other sessions focused on leadership, community outreach and election issues. The judges heard from the state Judicial Conduct Commission about elections. All 116 of the state's district judges are up for election this year.

And of course Eastern Kentucky is known for the coal mines, the gorgeous Appalachian Mountains and Daniel Boone National Forest. Many times, people are shaped based on their surroundings. For instance, since farms are plentiful in Western Kentucky, kids in Western Kentucky grow up learning how to work on farms. Because of the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, there isn't much flat land to farm. However, many work in the coal mines. Boys and girls growing up in Louisville, on the other hand, have more access to the things a big city can bring.

"And even though you and Mr. Blackford both were born in Kentucky, you grew up in different regions. As far as his phrases and adding "r" sounds to words, that's what you call 'dialect.' Dialect is a regional language that has its own grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation. The Appalachian region of Kentucky is known for its own dialect."

The conversation made our walk home go quickly. I was thinking about how Mr. B. might be missing his home. As we walked through the front door and into the kitchen, I had the most brilliant idea!

MORE CHAPTER 5

ACTIVITIES

1. Open up your local newspaper and browse for restaurant advertisements. How many different cuisines do you see ads for?

2. If you can't find any advertisements, open the phone book. (Your school library may have one.) Look in the Yellow Pages for restaurants. How many different restaurants are in your town? How many different cuisines are offered? (For example: 3 Mexican restaurants, 1 Italian restaurants, etc.)

3. Mr. B. realized Woody and the family lived east of his house. If he wasn't using a map or a compass, how would he have known that?

4. When Mr. B. said goodbye to the family, he tipped his hat. Why would someone tip his hat?

5. Mom explained how different regions had their own dialect. Mr. B. used phrases like "sure as shootin," and "spin a yam." Do you have family members that use similar phrases? If so, email Woody at woody@thewoodybooks.com and tell him what those phrases are. While you are emailing him, please remember to tell Woody your favorite cuisine.

6. Cut out We're All Ears Chapter 5 and paste it in your scrapbook. Collect all ten chapters and you will have your very own Woody book! Make sure you visit www.thewoodybooks.com or www.kypress.com and listen to me read each chapter. While you are there, check out a special video message from Mom and me!

"Why can't we enter the contest?" my sister asked in her sweet voice.

"Because neither of us can drive," I explained.

"Why do you need to drive, Woody?" Mom asked. "If it's too far for you to walk, your Dad or I will drive."

"But how can we win the cruisin' part of the contest if we can't drive?" I asked.

"There isn't a cruisin' category, son," Dad answered.

"Yes there is," I said, pointing to the spot. Dad took the newspaper and read the categories aloud.

"Kentucky music, Kentucky art, Kentucky cuisine . . . It's 'kwuh-zeen,' silly!" Dad said as he shook with laughter. "I take it that since you can't pronounce the word you probably can't define it. Cuisine is a style of food," Dad explained. "For instance, the Italian cuisine would be pasta, sauces and garlic."

"Kentucky cuisine," Mom said, "will focus on the food Kentucky is known for."

"Kentucky is known for a style of food?" Chloe asked.

"Land sakes, o' course it is," Mr. B. answered. "Have you ever tasted a good ol' cheesy Kentucky hot brown or enjoyed a mouth-watering piece of Kentucky Derby Pie?"

"Barbecue sandwich from Owensboro," Dad added.

"What about Colonel Sanders' paw-licking good Kentucky Fried Chicken?" Chloe said, making my belly growl.

"Speaking of food, Mom interjected, "Mr. Blackford, since you've been so nice to the pups, would you like to join us for dinner tomorrow? We'd be thrilled to have you as our guest. We just live a mile or so down the road."

"I'd be obliged, Mr. B. replied. "We can discuss how we're going to win this contest. Speaking of, how about you cuties take a stack of these old newspapers home? You can browse and learn more about Kentucky. Remember, even if the news is old, we can learn many things, especially about the culture of the Appalachian region that I come from."

Mr. B., along with my parents, sister and I walked out the front door. He headed one way, and our family turned in the other direction.

"So I see you guys live east of me, Mr. B. observed. "How will I know when I've reached your house?"

"That will be easy," Mom and Dad laughed as Dad spoke. "Just look for the sign that has a picture of wiener dogs in the yard. You can't miss us."

"Oh, I added when Dad was finished, "there's a patch of grass that's no longer green but yellow." Everyone laughed, though I didn't see what was funny.

Wayne County wallop Rebels on the road

Rebel player ejected, 11 others suspended following practice boycott

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent
and
Larry Rowell
Editor

The Casey County football team (3-4, 1-2) will be carrying their 48-14 Wayne County loss into this Friday's homecoming game. And that's not the only loss the team will face this week, even before the kickoff.

Casey County High School Athletic Director Victor Black confirmed on Monday that Colin Miller, ejected from Thursday's game at Wayne County, has been suspended along with 11 of his teammates for the homecoming game.

Miller is the only player suspended because of an official's determination that he threw a punch with a closed fist at the end of a play on Thursday night, Black said.

According to Marple, and unrelated to Thursday's game, a group of 11 juniors and seniors boycotted practices on Friday during Fall break, thus causing the suspensions.

"I scheduled practice for Friday morning and some of the kids boycotted," said Marple. "It's disappointing you're going to have a bunch of seniors and juniors sitting on the bench while sophomores and freshmen play their season. I hate it for the kids, but I think there are some things bigger than wins and losses. It's impossible to go through life and not have downfalls, but you've got to respond the right way."

Black echoed Marple's

decision to bench the kids who cut practice.

"First and foremost, we're teachers and lessons are learned beyond the classroom that carry over into life. I support that Coach Marple felt he was making the best decision for his program not only for now but for the future," Black said.

Wayne Co. loss

Marple said that he was disappointed with the way the team played against Wayne.

"It's the first time this year we just didn't play football. We never got off the bus; never put forth any amount effort," he said.

After falling behind 29-7 in the first half and seeing the Cardinals (2-6, 1-2) continue to add points in the third quarter, two fights broke out on the field.

"We didn't like what was happening to us and weren't responding well, and we probably started both of (the fights) and probably lost both," said Marple. "It resulted in the suspension of one player and there probably should have been another one."

Wayne County did not run away with the score in the first half.

While they did score the first touchdown at 5:28 on a two-yard run, the Rebels responded within 15 seconds. Micco Randell ran the ball 52 yards for a touchdown with Luke Patterson adding the extra point. Casey led 7-6.

It was the only Rebel lead of the night. Wayne County pulled ahead with a safety shortly into the second period. They went on to score three more times in the quarter and led 29-7 at half time.

They added 19 points in the third quarter, including a touchdown resulting from an interception.

The Rebels managed one more touchdown in the final period, with Kyle Eads scoring from 13 yards out.

Casey had five first downs compared to the Cardinals' 22. Wayne also totaled 424 yards, most of which were on the ground, while Casey had 125 total.

The team totaled 110 tackles, with Eads and Jaylan Waddle each having 13.

"We'll be OK but sometimes you've got to take some pauses and learn some life lessons," said Marple. "There's not a lot of 3A schools that are going to beat (Bell and Wayne County) anyway, but you can't let those two losses affect the rest of your season."

Coming off two straight losses, the Rebels return home this week for their homecoming game against Metcalfe County (3-4, 1-0).

"Metcalfe County is a game we should win, but when you take eight or nine starters off the field, I don't know if it's a game we should win or not," said Marple. "I still think with the kids we've got we plan on winning."

Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m.

The homecoming bonfire will be Thursday evening with the crowning of the King and Queen taking place during halftime of Friday's game.

McQueen competes in state tournament

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

In her first trip to the KHSAA State Golf tournament, Laura McQueen performed well enough to be one of 79 girls to advance to the second day of play.

"It was definitely a fun experience," said McQueen. "It was really close after I finished (the first day), but I kind of expected to make it into the second day."

McQueen shot an 83 on Oct. 7 at the Bowling Green Country Club, good enough to rank her 37th at the end of the first day and advance her to the second round of the tournament. More than 150 girls competed at the state tournament, both on teams and individually, and 79 moved on to day two.

"Eleven teams advance and out of the remaining teams that didn't make the cut, their names go into the individual pool," said Coach Sarah Christian. "There were also 44 individuals not there as a team."

McQueen was one of those 44 individuals, as the Lady Rebels did not qualify as a team. After the 11 teams, 24 additional competitors were selected to advance to the second day.

"The second day, after

she made the cut, she played some holes spectacular, having three birdies for the day," said Christian.

McQueen finished with a score of 169 after shooting an 86 on Wednesday. She tied for 42nd overall with Margaret Clifton of Henry Clay and Amy Pugliano of Notre Dame Academy.

Madison Thomas of Shelby County took home the championship trophy, shooting a 139 (71, 68), five under par. Sacred Heart won the team title with a score of 645.

"I just kind of thought of it as another tournament, and I didn't want to get myself all worked up," said McQueen. "This winter I just want to be in a lot more tournaments and work on my game in the off season more. I would like to be in the top 10 next year."

"I was very proud of (McQueen)," said Christian. "I hope and expect she and the entire team can make it to state next year."

VolleyRebs lose to Taylor Co., take win from Danville

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The VolleyRebs added a win and a loss to their record last week, falling to Taylor County at home before dominating Danville in their last road game of the regular season. The team is 16-9.

vs. Taylor County

After defeating Taylor (23-9) earlier this season 2-0, the VolleyRebs were taken down 3-0 on Oct. 7 at home.

"It was fall break and we just weren't on our game," said Coach Veronica Sengkhamyong. "Can we beat them, yes we've proven that."

The Lady Cards took a seven-point win in the opening game, 25-17.

While Casey played them close in games two and three, they never managed to come out on top. The VolleyRebs lost both games 25-21.

Megan Murphy led scoring with seven points on serve. Cydney Warner had ten kills and seven blocks as well as two aces. Tyra Sengkhamyong totaled 29 sets and senior Kelli Wilson had 12 kills and Wilson had seven passes.

Vs. Danville

Casey played their final regular season road game on Monday night and swept Danville (2-19), 2-0. They prevailed 25-7, 25-10.

"For us not having practice for the week of fall break, my girls came in and played to their level instead of to Danville's level," said Sengkhamyong. "They came in and did what they had to do."

Wilson led the team with ten points on serve, including four aces. Murphy and Tyra Sengkhamyong each had eight points on serve. Sengkhamyong also led with 18 sets while Warner had 12 kills and Wilson had seven passes.

The VolleyRebs had their senior night game and ceremony last night in a home game against Russell County. See next week's issue for results.

The 47th District tournament begins on Monday hosted by Rockcastle County.

"We're just going to put in some good hard practices. We're going to practice Sunday too and concentrate on covering some holes on the floor we have," said Coach Sengkhamyong.

Casey will face the Lady Rockets at 7:30 p.m.

Soccer Rebs finish season play

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Rebels closed out their regular season with a 9-0 loss to Southwestern Pulaski (6-8).

"We played well in the first half, but couldn't hold our focus in the second half," said Coach Loren Pennington.

Stephanie Blackwood again performed well in the goalie position. Even with the Lady Warriors scoring nine goals, she stopped 22.

"She kept us in the game until midway through the second half with several key stops," Pennington said. "Our offense had times of great execution, but was stopped by equally great play from Southwestern's goalie."

Casey managed eight shots on goal, but was stopped each time.

"Southwestern was probably one of the best, if not the best, team we've played all year," he said.

With the regular season now over, Casey's scheduled game in the 47th District tournament against Somerset at Pulaski County High School on Tuesday has been postponed until Wednesday at 8 p.m.

"My biggest disappointment was not giving our seniors a better season, and not being to recognize them for their effort to the program, on the field, in front of their family and friends," said Pennington. "I, along with many others, look forward to the day that we get to celebrate senior night on our own home field."

Three boat ramps at Cedar Creek to close temporarily

One of three ramps at Cedar Creek Lake in Lincoln County will temporarily close to boat launching to provide a safer course for a foot race planned for Oct. 26.

The closure of the John Sims Boat Ramp, located near the dam, will aid safety by reducing traffic along the 19.65-mile Brickhouse Between-a-thon race course.

The ramp will close from 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25, through 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 26. Anglers with trailers in the parking lot will still be able to retrieve their boats and leave during the closure.

Cedar Creek Lake's other two boat ramps will remain open. The mid-lake ramp is located off old U.S. 150, while the third ramp is located off Cowan Road.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife is working with Lincoln County officials on the ramp closure to help support tourism in the area.

Association and the Fort Logan Fraternal Order of Police.

The race begins at 8 a.m. Oct. 26. Runners will start at First Southern Veteran's Park in Stanford and continue past Cedar Creek Lake to the historic William Whitley House before returning to the starting point. More information about the race is available online at www.runbrickhouse.org.

Other than the temporary closure of the upper ramp, access and fishing at the lake will not be affected.

POLICE NEWS

Theft

William E. Zearing, 25, of 844 Hustonville St., Liberty, was arrested on Oct. 9 at the Pulaski County Detention Center and charged with theft by failure to make required disposition of property. The arrest warrant states that Zearing got a 1997 Oldsmobile Cutlass vehicle from Jerry Long and failed to return it. The value of the automobile is more than $500, court records state.

Assault

Roger Sharp, 29, of Rough Ridge Road, Liberty, was arrested on Oct. 10 on Wallace Wilkinson Boulevard by Deputy Chad G. Weddle and charged with fourth-degree assault minor injury. An arrest warrant indicates that on Oct. 7, Sharp hit Bobbie Posey in the face with his fist.

Stolen property

Thomas R. Butler, 44, of 199 Bee Lee Road, Liberty, was arrested on Oct. 5 at the Casey County Detention Center by Deputy Jamie Walters and charged with receiving stolen property $10,000 or more. According to court records, Butler was seen driving a Coca-Cola truck on Bee Lee Road that was taken from the Western Kentucky Coca-Cola Bottling Company in Campbellsville.

Unlawful transaction with minor

Sheila Franklin, 40, of 1320 Matherly Road, Liberty, was issued a criminal summons on Oct. 13 by Deputy Chad G. Weddle, charging her with third-degree unlawful transaction with a minor. The summons states that on July 16, Franklin took her minor daughter to have a fight with another unnamed juvenile. Franklin encouraged her daughter during the fight by yelling remarks.

Traffic charges

■ Austin T. Hogue, 18, of 18 Glen Emerson Lane, Liberty, was arrested on Oct. 11 on Ky. 49 by Trooper Kevin Roberts and charged with first offense DUI, operating on a suspended or revoked operator's license, possession of an open alcohol beverage container in a motor vehicle prohibited, failure to wear seat belts, failure of non-owner/operator to maintain required insurance, failure to produce insurance card, and license to be in possession. Court records show that Hogue, who had an open Coors Light beer can in the car, told Roberts that he drank three beers earlier but had no beer an hour before the traffic stop.

■ David Austin Lynn, 18, of 38 Fair Cemetery Road, Liberty, was cited on Oct. 2 on Wallace Wilkinson Boulevard by Officer Kerry Patten and charged with leaving the scene of an accident/failure to render aid or assistance. Lynn, involved in a two vehicle accident as he was leaving McDonald's, left the scene and was later apprehended by a deputy with the Casey County Sheriff's office.

Wrecks

■ Deputy Chad G. Weddle investigated a one-vehicle accident that sent a Stanford man to the hospital. An accident report states that Donald Wilson Jr., 19, of 8870 Ky. 78, was headed south in a 1993 Taurus on U.S. 127 at 4:59 a.m. on Tuesday when he lost control on the wet roadway, ran off the right side of the road, striking a ditch and then a fence. Casey County EMS took Wilson to Casey County Hospital.

■ Trooper Kevin Roberts was called to an accident on Hustonville Street behind Farmer's Deposit Bank on Monday about 2 p.m. Cindy Luttrell, 33, of Liberty, was traveling east in a 2003 Chevrolet Cavalier when her car dropped off the shoulder, left the roadway and hit a utility pole, knocking it across the roadway. Roberts was assisted at the scene by Liberty Casey County Rescue Squad. Luttrell was taken to Casey Hospital by Casey County EMS.

■ Deputy Chad G. Weddle investigated a single vehicle wreck on Monday that injured a Liberty woman. Debra Brown, 35, of 137 David's Drive, was driving south on Red Hill Road about 10 a.m. in a 2003 Pontiac Vibe when she lost control in a curve, crossed the centerline and struck a fence, causing the vehicle to turn upside down. Brown was taken to Casey Hospital in a private vehicle.
